Yes, Alex is a wonderful professor who really wants to help you create positive change in the world.

Absolutely its a fantastic course that pushes you out of your comfort zone. And you'll never have another professor that cares as much as this one.

This class is wonderful. It really gives you the tools and motivation to make the changes you want to see in the world become reality

YES! He will prepare you for the real world.

Highly recommend this class. Such an inspiring class and professor. So different from other Haas classes. Really embodies the change making/entrepreneurship culture of Haas and the Bay Area.

Yes, one of the best classes in Haas

Yes

I would absolutely recommend this class to any student who wants to learn how me initiate change in the world

Yes I definitely would recommend this course. Alex is a truly amazing person and professor who is well qualified to teach this course due to his own career and experiences. He cares about his students and their success as future change makers.

This class is amazing for personal growth and learning how to get started with ideas you may have.

Yes 1000% I would and I already have. This course is a hands-on way to get out of your comfort zone and learn more about personal growth!

Yes! This class has been one of the most impactful courses I've taken, not on any hard or technical skills, but on my perspective and my direction going forward. To students considering taking this class, I would say that this class has given me more confidence in the change I want to make in the future and in my own ability to achieve those goals.

Yes see previous comment a

I love this course. And Alex is one of the best professors I have ever had. This course is absolutely inspiring. Everything about it, from guest speakers to experiential exercises, students will find motivation and inspiration in every lesson and will learn how to be a better individual en route to a better leader for our communities and future. The classroom community is very inclusive and supportive of each other and it creates such a safe space for all of us to doing the best we can.

I would definitely recommend this class to anyone who would listen.

Yes because he is a professor that truly cares for the student's future in all his or her endeavors. He guides and mentors, while actually allowing first-hand experience on the concepts taught.

I would definitely recommend this class, it has really changed my vision of leadership and change!

Completely! This is the most innovative, future-oriented course I have ever taken! Equips students for getting started in the real world!

Yes 100%, already recommended it to several students 1000000% yes. Everyone at Cal should be required to take this course. It gives an optimistic and changemaking perspective to any discipline. It has genuinely changed my outlook on the world and how I want to go through life. Even if you think you are already a good leader, this class will teach you so much about being not just a leader, but a changemaker, wherever you go in life. Professionally, socially, and individually, this class has changed my perspective on my ability to make change, and our collective ability to make this world a better place.

Yes as he is able to effectively present the material of the class in such a way it feels less like learning and more of a personal conversation that gets you ready for the future.

Yes. Berkeley needs more change-makers for the tense situation that the world is in now. This course should help offer some good support.

Yes, I would definitely recommend this class. It helped me develop a healthier mindset and equipped me to tackle challenges in my career and in my life. The professor is very kind and instills a lot of passion and inspiration in his students. The class itself is an incredibly supportive community and you will meet smart, passionate, and thoughtful peers.

"Becoming a Changemaker" is a recommendable course and open to anyone (regardless background, work experience, field of study, interest). Alex is super passionate about this course
